today that their confrontation began when weiner slammed me a couple of times on my chest.

patients are also told to elevate their legs whenever possible and to get up and exercise their legs periodically when restricted for extended periods to small spaces, such as airplane seats.