She was extolling how going natural (which, to her, meant no drugs) was so wonderful, what a great experience, how that’s the only way to go, etc (she is toothpick thin, by the way).

Vitex extract could be useful for reducing inflammation, acne and female hair loss. Someone please share your experiences? I am having major shedding and wondering if the vitex might help at all.