after he died, he had an autopsy which showed his body was riddled with the disease it would be an interesting study to see if high end prospects have been beating their projections when they've finally made it (since 2005)

you can also track your symptoms to discover what might trigger them